MAIN ACTIVITY:	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. In Smack Dab in the Middle of Maybe, we learn Cricket’s mom liked Emily Dickinson’s Poem #314 “Hope is a thing with feathers”. Later, Miss V. read the poem to Percy. Read “Hope is the thing with feathers” aloud by having one student read the entire poem or by having three students take a turn reading a stanza. 2. Have the students look up the words perch, gale, sore, abash, chilliest and extremity and write down the definitions. If individual computers are not available, look up the words as a class. 3. Explain metaphors to the class. What metaphor did Dickinson use in the poem? Discuss how “hope” and “the thing with feathers” are similar. Ask students why they think Dickinson compared the two. 4. Have the students answer the following questions either in a class discussion or on a sheet of paper: On pages 50 – 51 in Smack Dab in the Middle of Maybe, Cricket says, “Hope is the thing with feathers.” Mama said that every time she saw a cardinal. “Emily Dickinson wrote that in a poem.” She said that every time, too. Mama called cardinals good-luck birds because they’re easy to find when you need a smidgeon of beauty. They’re kin to tanagers but don’t fly off to South America for the winter.” Discuss why Mama may have liked the poem so much. What do you think she was hopeful for? Why do you think she said it whenever she saw a cardinal? On page 113, we find out that the poem is also one of Percy’s favorites. Why do you think Percy liked the poem? After Miss V. read the poem, Percy held out his paw for the lady to shake, jumped up, ran over to the edge of the garden, and dug five holes, one right beside the other. Why do you think Percy did that after hearing the poem? What is something you are hopeful for?
CLOSING ACTIVITY:	Emily Dickinson compares hope to a bird. Ask the students what else hope could be compared to and why.
